Location Florida; North Carolina

Job Description

Advising Wells Fargo lines of business and corporate functions on complex legal issues relating to doing business in the Latin American & Caribbean region (the “Latin America region”). The candidate should have experience in advising on financial services in the region, preferably with experience in-house at a bank or other financial services institution.

Main duties:

- Working closely with business units to help develop their businesses, particularly in obtaining approvals from new product committees through creative, problem-solving legal input to such new product development.
- Advising on licensing regulations in various jurisdictions in the Latin America region, particularly on the ability to market, solicit and conduct business in the region.
- Providing legal advice on compliance policies, advising and working with Risk and Compliance Departments, including on AML issues.
- Adhering to Law Department policies and procedures in retaining external counsel, and managing external counsel relationships and related expenses (including invoice approval).
- Representing the Bank in dealing with others outside the organization.

Required Qualifications

- 5+ years as a practicing attorney
- Active State Bar membership

Desired Qualifications

- Ability to analyze legal issues in substantive law in area of practice and provide effective advice to clients on complex legal matters
- Extensive knowledge and understanding of research, counsel, and guidance on complex legal questions or inquiries
- Strong attention to detail and accuracy skills
