CHRIS DE SANTIS

Specialist in Management and Organizational Development

CHRIS DE SANTIS is an organizational behavior practitioner, speaker, podcaster, and author with over 35 years of experience in training and development. He primarily works with clients in professional services firms, both domestically and internationally.

Chris often speaks about embracing generational diversity, as discussed in his new book, “Why I Find You Irritating: Navigating Generational Friction at Work.” Additionally, he is conversant in multiple topics relevant to developing and sustaining long term relationships both inside an organization and with the clients they serve.

Chris has an undergraduate degree in business from the University of Notre Dame, an M.B.A. from the University of Denver, and an M.A. in organization development from Loyola University. He lives in a quiet corner in the Lincoln Park neighborhood of Chicago.
